

Junior Association for the Study of Medical Education

Vision

JASME aims to support its members to grow an interest in medical education through many interventions and opportunities. These include providing sessions that allow members to develop their understanding and experience within medical education. Sessions will be run by JASME itself and by committed volunteers who act as local representatives in their healthcare courses or places of work.

JASME also aims to give members an opportunity to showcase their work and receive recognition for their commitment to medical education through a range of prizes and awards.

JASME will also continue to build on its national networks, both within institutions and online. This includes building its local rep network and its social media platforms, using these to encourage engagement with policy, practice and research within medical education. Through such networks, JASME can also collect the views and experiences of their members and use these to effectively influence medical education policy and practice through their collaboration with other SIGs and with ASME itself.

For more information, email jasme@asme.org.uk or visit our website for a list of all membership benefits and details of how to join online.

History

ASME have been working to promote medical education amongst students and junior healthcare professionals since 2009. This has involved different forms, however in recent years JASME have been developing a significant social media presence and now have engagement with members and others interested in medical education through Facebook, Twitter, Instagram and YouTube. JASME has also been increasing its representation at universities around the UK, with a local representative network which aims to have student representatives at every medical school in the country. JASME have also expanded the range of awards they offer to meet the changing exposure to medical education amongst students and early career professionals.

Membership Fees

We are delighted to be able to offer JASME membership at a reduced rate of £15 per annum for students studying at Universities who are institutional members of ASME*, a reduction of over 50% on the current standard JASME/Undergraduate membership fee. In addition to this, recognising that this amount can be challenging for some students whom we wish to support, we will also provide free membership to students from a Widening Participation background whilst they are in full time study. *

* Terms & Conditions

- 🔥 Students must be studying full time at a member institution.
- 🔥 Reduced rates will cease on graduation
- 🔥 Students wishing to apply for free membership must provide a letter from their institution confirming their WP status or that they are in significant financial hardship to qualify
- 🔥 Membership is for online only access to our journals Medical Education and The Clinical Teacher

Awards

JASME Awards ASME offers a rolling programme of Prizes to its members:

Student Innovation Prize

Awarded to a Student for a project or piece of work surrounding an original and innovative idea that has already been undertaken.

Foundation Innovation Prize

Awarded to an FY1 or FY2 doctor for a medical education project already undertaken.

Sir John Ellis Student Prize

Rewards excellence in a piece of work, survey, research or innovation in which submitter has been directly involved in the field of medical education.

ASME Intercalation Prize

This is a new prize, introduced for the academic year 2018/19. The prize follows the same submission criteria and format as the Sir John Ellis Prize, however, is specifically for projects completed during an intercalated degree.

Medical School Local Representative Network

JASME also have a fantastic Local Representative network; This includes having a JASME representative at every UK medical school. The 'local reps' promote JASME at their medical school and host their own JASME supported medical education related event each year to promote an engagement in MedEd among the student body. In the past these have ranged from evenings on careers or the role of comics in medical education to full conferences or microteaching workshops.

Events/Activities

As well as the Local Rep events, JASME attend a number of events over the course of the year: these include the ASME ASM, TASME spring conference, Academy of Medical Educators Annual Academic Meeting and Healthcare Leadership Academy's Conference.
